

Not All Auto Repair Facilities are Created Equal

Do you know what makes one different from another? It's about who is doing the repair, who performed the diagnosis and what parts are being installed on your vehicle. Shopping for price is important. You want to get a good deal. But how many times has an advertised price turned into a higher price by the time a "discount" service is done? More importantly, was it what your vehicle actually needed, and was it done right, with quality parts and a great warranty?

Schaumburg Automedics uses only the latest test equipment, often the same equipment used by the manufacturers, and our people are fully trained. We use only top-grade parts. That means you get the job done right. Sometimes that may seem to cost more than some discount price, but having a qualified technician doing the right work the right way the first time saves money in the end.

Not All Technicians Are the Same

Anyone who gets paid to work on an automobile is, by definition, a "mechanic" or "auto tech." But then again, everything the human body can digest is, by definition, food too. There's a big difference between bologna and prime rib. There's a big difference between some guy with a toolbox and an ASE Certified Master Technician.

ASE certification is the industry standard by which automotive technicians are measured. At Schaumburg Automedics, all our technicians are ASE certified and most of them are ASE Master Techs. This means they are constantly updating their training and being re-tested to ensure they are up-to-date with all the latest updates and technologies that matter when servicing your car. At Schaumburg Automedics, you get the best.

So, What Happens After the Repair?

Auto service doesn't end when you pay your repair bill. The "service" part of auto service goes on long after you leave the shop. You need to know that the work you had done is done right and that the parts you bought are the best quality. But how do you know that? Every shop tells you, "Hey, our parts are great. And we promise we did it right." That's all fine and dandy, but what is the written warranty?

If you want to know how well the work at a repair shop is done, you need to look at the warranty. If a shop isn't willing to stand behind its work for a considerable length of time, both on the calendar and on the road, then you should wonder why. Why won't they back that service up for very long? Perhaps the parts and workmanship aren't really as good as they say. If they don't have confidence in their work, why should you?

At Schaumburg Automedics, our in-house warranty is 2 years or 24,000 miles.

Period. All services. All cars. We can afford to do that because we do the work right. We don't just say it; we do it.

Let us be your automotive service facility. We put our money where our mouth is.

Look What Customers Are Saying About Us

"My 'go to' mechanic is my uncle, but we moved out of state and I was in search of a new mechanic that I could trust as much as family... and I can happily say I found one! They were able to solve my car's problem with an affordable option and explained it in a way I could understand. I think what I was most impressed with was the way that each time I called, it didn't matter who answered the phone. They were all well informed on the situation, and I didn't have to explain who I was or what was wrong to multiple people. Schaumburg Automedics is now my go-to mechanic as long as I live in Illinois."

– M.R. West Dundee, IL

My truck feels like new. I'm glad I found Schaumburg Automedics.

– Ray G.

We were very happy with the service we received. A friend recommended them to us because my daughter is new to the area and we didn't know who to take her car to. We will definitely take her car back there again.

– C.B. Monroe, NC

I have done business with JJ for over twenty years. Never had a bad or questionable experience with Automedics. Every job has been done on time at the quoted price.

– B.P. Schaumburg, IL
